Nearly every building in Winnebago was damaged, many homes being demolished. Property damage in this section total into the millions.

SIOUX CITY, IA., Sept. 14.—Tornadoes and accompanying storms of lesser proportions swept through Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, late yesterday, taking heavy loss of human life and property.

Deaths in the three states, a United Press survey showed today. There was no accurate estimate of the number injured but reports, which filtered in slowly through the disrupted lines of communication revealed a heavy list of injured.

NEBRASKA—Mary Belt, 10, Winnebago; Helen Rooney, Homer school teacher; Frank Rehmeck, Omaha, killed near Pender; unidentified school child, killed near Walthill; six-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kunzky, living near Winnebago; Andrew Larsen, Walthill school boy; Phyllis Stewart, 22, Winnebago school teacher.

Although the storms cut a path 300 feet wide in parts of Dakota City, Neb., reports to the United Press today said only two persons were injured seriously there. Mrs. Herman Funk and Mrs. Henry Glow were brought to hospitals here in critical condition.

Doctors and nurses from Sioux City and vicinity left here last night on a relief train made up here.

Meagre reports indicated the town of Davis, S. D., was hardest hit. Twenty persons were reported to have been injured there. Houses by the score were reported collapsed and larger buildings damaged heavily.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS ON TRAIL PAVING

First Stretch North of Here To Be Completed Nov. 1 Contractor Estimates.

Paving of the four-mile stretch of the Scioto Trail between Circleville and South Bloomfield is expected to be completed by Nov. 1, Elmer Craig, superintendent in charge for W. H. Ringwald & Sons, the contractors, said Friday.

Between 60 and 70 men are at work on the road, and work of pouring concrete will be completed within three weeks. Fifteen trucks and two steam shovels are being used.

The section through the town of Bloomfield will be completed first. Motorists are now driving over the concrete base for a short distance there.

Brick will be moved to that point next Monday.

Mr. Craig said the entire stretch would be completed this fall with the exception of about 400 feet on either side of the covered bridge, north of this city. That will not be finished until after completion of the new bridge, some time early next spring. The unpaved portion will be well graded, however, to permit traffic.

Mr. Craig said machinery to be used on the seven-mile stretch, between Bloomfield and the Franklin-co line, was being moved this week, and work was to be started there by the middle of next week. The seven-mile paving is expected to be finished by Jan. 1, 1929.

TWO HELD IN KIDNAPING OF CHICAGO BOY

Police Believe They Have Got Between For Gang Demanding Ransom.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Two men were held by police today for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of 10-year-old William Barker, held under threat of death for a ransom of $60,000.

The men were Salvatore Mastrolanni, owner of a poolroom, and Reardo Skid, a sewer digger, who had been employed by A. Frank Renner, the boy's father, who is a sewer contractor.

Police arrested the men when it became known Renner had conspired with them secretly. It was believed Mastrolanni and Skid might be acting as go-between for the father and the abductors.

Renner previously had told police he was confident his son would be returned today, but refused to reveal the source of his hopes. He was believed to have been in communication with the kidnapers yesterday and to have arranged for the young boy's return.

It was investigation of the father's secret journey to supposed agents of the extortionists that led to the two arrests. Mafia theorists, police pointed out, have extorted money from wealthy Italians for years through black hand methods. Police hoped to obtain information from Mastrolanni and Skid which might lead to arrest of the ring leaders of Chicago's Mafia.

Children of the St. Genevieve parochial school where William Renner was a student, offered special prayers for the return of their schoolmate.

Fear spread through the district surrounding the school. Parents accompanied their children and came to get them when classes were over.

The action of the father in attempting to negotiate with the kidnapers through his own people was looked on by police as evidence of his fear that police activity and publicity would bring upon him and his son the vengeance included in the Mafia code.

FITZPATRICK TALKS ON PUMPKIN SHOW

Former Mayor Tells Rotarians of History and Aims of Exposition.

George M. Fitzpatrick, former mayor of Circleville, gave a very interesting talk at the Thursday meeting of the Rotary Club on the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Mr. Fitzpatrick gave some of the history of the show, relating back to the first show planned 26 years ago by the late George R. Hawley, and compared it with the shows of late years.

"The real purpose of the Pumpkin Show," he said, "is to promote and extend agricultural pursuit, in the display of grain, fruit, vegetable, live stock, poultry, articles of domestic industry, school displays and other displays that will promote the general agricultural and household manufacturing interests of Pickaway-co."

He then outlined the work of each department which has charge of the displays, and finances for the show.

His talk in part follows: "It costs between six and seven thousand dollars to put on the show. This money is derived from popular subscriptions from business men, space sold for shows, lunch stands and mercantile displays, and a percentage from the rides. In the last several years we have accumulated a nest egg of several hundred dollars as a reserve to use in case of bad weather where our receipts fall below our expenses. But up to the present time 'The sun always shines for the Pumpkin Show.'"

"Let us show the farmer that we appreciate his efforts in bringing to us the products of the farm for two ends. First, it will demonstrate that the city business man is really interested in helping to promote everything that the farmer is interested in promoting. Second it will encourage one of the best movements now going on in the county, under the supervision of the Farm Bureau, the boys' and girls' club work."

In closing his talk he thanked the Rotary Club for taking care of the soliciting and boosting they are giving the Pumpkin Show for this year.

RESCUE MAIL PLANE SHOT FROM LINER

Craft, Catapulted From Deck of Ship, Missing 24 Hours.

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 14.—(UP.)—Commander Louis Demouget and two companions, lost in a ship to shore mail plane, from the liner Ile De France, have been rescued at sea.

A message received here today said they had been landed at Newlyn, Cornwall, by a steamer. Newlyn is in the southernmost tip of England, near Penzance.

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 14.—The missing postal plane which had been catapulted from the deck of the liner Ile De France, was sighted today 28 miles off Bishop's Rock in tow of a sailing vessel, a British seaplane informed authorities here.

The report of the seaplane ended a search that had lasted all night for Commander Louis Demouget and two companions who left the liner with American mail at 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

The Ile De France was 90 miles west of the Scilly Islands at the time. Although the plane carried wireless, nothing was heard from it after it left the liner.

Two British seaplanes left Portland and two started out from here to join the tugs hunting the channel for the French plane.

The report of the British plane did not give details. It was considered likely, however, that the aviators were safe, as their seaplane was sturdy, and that they floated after being forced down until picked up by the fishing boat.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—(UP.)—The three members of the Ile De France mail plane crew have been picked up off the Scilly Islands, a dispatch picked up by the Le Bourget radio station said today.

The dispatch did not mention the disposition of the plane or the crew was being carried by the steamer to Plymouth this afternoon. The dispatch said the rescue occurred 20 miles south of the Scilly Islands and 70 miles south of Penzance.

Besides Demouget the plane carried Naval Lieutenant Monrouzeau and Mechanic Le Tierce. The mail plane had been expected to arrive in either Bristol or Havre some time yesterday afternoon, both being relieving stops.

She was catapulted from the Ile De France.

GUNMAN NEAR DEATH AFTER KILLING COP

Bandit Who Held Off 200 Officers Boasts He Killed 25 Men.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14.—Alternately begging for death and boasting of his prowess as a killer, Paul Jawarski, Pittsburgh payroll bandit and gunman trapped and shot here late yesterday after he killed one patrolman, shot another and wounded a confederate, was teetering between death from paralysis or death in the electric chair today.

If Jawarski recovers from bullet wounds inflicted by police during the spectacular gun battle which resulted in his capture, he will be removed to Pittsburgh where he is under sentence to die for the murder of a paymaster. The gunman was paralyzed today and on the brink of death.

Jawarski was shot down by Patrolman Yaro Koudela during a battle which brought out 200 policemen and detectives who used tear bombs, riot guns and service revolvers to bring about his capture.

Two of the gunman's victims, Patrolman George Effinger and Ben Majsterik, the confederate, were in critical condition today in the same hospital. Jawarski's third victim, Patrolman Anthony Wiczorek, was killed instantly.

Jawarski's latest debacle with the law began in a restaurant on Fleet-ave. here. He was dining when a former Pittsburgh youth entered and recognized him. The boy summoned police and Effinger and Wiczorek led the squad of five officers who went to the cafe.

John Vashinder, another condemned murderer who with Jawarski shot his way from the Allegheny-co prison at Pittsburgh a year ago, was with Jawarski. He jumped from his stool and fled, but the killer instinct in Jawarski was predominant.

Jawarski whipped a gun from his clothing and fired. Wiczorek fell dead and Effinger was wounded. Jawarski fled amid a hail of bullets fired by Effinger who refused to be downed.

Outside Jawarski continued firing and Majsterik, attracted by (Turn to Page Three, Please)

THOUSANDS SUFFERING, FEAR FAMINE

Property Loss On Island Will Reach Millions—Wires Disrupted.

BY THOMAS E. BENNER, Chancellor, University of Porto Rico

(Copyright 1928 by United Press)
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 4.—Many lives have been lost in this tropical hurricane which devastated this island yesterday.

The property loss will reach millions. Death, suffering and destruction was spread through the entire island. It was impossible today even to begin to approximate the loss. All communications were disrupted.

Thousands are homeless and in dire need. What may have happened to the interior of the island is painful to think of. Within a seven-mile radius of San Juan I personally viewed terrible destruction. Hospitals in this area were smashed and 80 per cent of the families are without shelter.

Famine and disease threaten them. The water supply of San Juan and surrounding cities has been cut off.

Medical supplies, food and shelter are needed at once. The island is not equipped to replace five per cent of the food and homes destroyed.

Within the small area I visited coconut, coffee and banana plantations were destroyed. Cattle and smaller crops were wiped out, killing off the major food supply.

Many more deaths are feared and disease are inevitable. Relief is organized at once. Immediate action is vital.

The intensity of the storm can be realized when it is considered that the wind velocity at 11 a. m. yesterday, three hours before the storm attained its greatest force, was 85 miles an hour.

Heavy rain added to the damage caused by the wind.

Porto Rico has an estimated population of 1,400,000. San Juan has a population of 90,000, so that Dr. Benner's estimate that 80 per cent of the population in that area are homeless would mean more than 70,000 persons.

Of the total population, more than 1,000,000 are white. Porto Rico is a United States possession administered by Gov. Herbert H. Towner of Iowa. It lies about 500 miles southeast of Cuba.

DECLARE WAR ON STRAY DOGS HERE

Circleville police have declared war on stray dogs and will not let up until the dog packs which rove over downtown districts are broken up.

During the past ten days the department has received approximately 15 reports of howling and stray dogs.

Thursday afternoon, Bryce Briggs, county auditor, chased five of the canine tribe from the flower bed in front of the court house.

Police shot one dog Thursday night and another Friday morning. Dogs should not be turned loose on the streets.

The men were Salvatore Mastrolanni, owner of a poolroom, and Reando Skid, a sewer digger who had been employed by A. Frank Ranieri, the boy's father, who is a sewer contractor.

Police arrested the men when it became known Ranieri had consulted with them secretly. It was believed Mastrolanni and Skid might be acting as go-between for the father and the abductors.

Ranieri previously had told police he was confident his son would be returned today, but refused to reveal the source of his hopes. He was believed to have been in communication with the kidnapers yesterday and to have arranged for the young boy's return.

It was investigation of the father's secret journey to supposed agents of the extortionists that led to the two arrests. Mafia terrorists, police pointed out, have extorted money from wealthy Italians for years through black hand methods. Police hoped to obtain information from Mastrolanni and Skid which might lead to arrest of the ring leaders of Chicago's Mafia.

Children of the St. Genevieve parochial school where William Ranieri was a student, offered special prayers for the return of their schoolmate.

Fear spread through the district surrounding the school. Parents accompanied their children and came to get them when classes were over.

The action of the father in attempting to negotiate with the kidnapers through his own people was looked on by police as evidence of his fear that police activity and publicity would bring up on him and his son the vengeance included in the Mafia code.

FINED $100 FOR HAVING BIG SEINE

James McKinley, 55, of Commercial Point, was brought to the county jail Friday, following a hearing before Justice Hoover, of Ashville, on a charge of having an illegal seine in his possession.

He was fined $100 and costs and committed to the jail until the account is paid.

McKinley was arrested in a corn field near his home by Frank Howard, Washington C. H., H. H. Grave, Harry S. Davis, both of Columbus, all state game wardens. The seine said to have been found in his possession measured 30 by 8 feet.

FITZPATRICK TALKS ON PUMPKIN SHOW

Former Mayor Tells Rotarians of History and Aims of Exposition.

George M. Fitzpatrick, former mayor of Circleville, gave a very interesting talk at the Thursday meeting of the Rotary Club on the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Mr. Fitzpatrick gave some of the history of the show, relating back to the first show planned 26 years ago by the late George R. Haswell, and compared it with the shows of late years.

"The real purpose of the Pumpkin Show," he said, "is to promote and extend agricultural pursuit, in the display of grain, fruit, vegetable, live stock, poultry, articles of domestic industry, school displays and other displays that will promote the general agricultural and household manufacturing interests of Pickaway-co."

He then outlined the work of each department which has charge of the displays, and finances for the show.

His talk in part follows: "It costs between six and seven thousand dollars to put on the show. This money is derived from popular subscriptions from business men, space sold for shows, lunch stands and mercantile displays, and a percentage from the rides. In the last several years we have accumulated a nest egg of several hundred dollars as a reserve to use in case of bad weather where our receipts fall below our expenses. But up to the present time 'The sun always shines for the Pumpkin Show.'"

"Let us show the farmer that we appreciate his efforts in bringing to us the products of the farm for two ends. First, it will demonstrate that the city business man is really interested in helping to promote everything that the farmer is interested in promoting. Second, it will encourage one of the best movements now going on in the county, under the supervision of the Farm Bureau, the boys' and girls' club work."

In closing his talk he thanked the Rotary Club for taking care of the soliciting and boasting they are giving the Pumpkin Show for this year.

VISITING LUTHERANS ENTERTAIN LOCAL MEN

Fifty visitors from the Lithopolis and Marcy brotherhoods, entertained the members of the local Lutheran brotherhood Thursday night at the Community House. The visitors offered a most interesting program, with humorous skits, dialogues and monologues. The selections of the excellent glee club were also popular.

Including the visitors there were 125 present to enjoy the supper served at 7:30 o'clock by the September committee.

RESCUE MAIL PLANE SHOT FROM LINER

Craft, Catapulted From Deck of Ship, Missing 24 Hours.

BULLETIN
PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 14.—(UP.)—Commander Louis Demouget and two companions, lost in a ship-to-shore mail plane from the liner Ile De France, have been rescued at sea.

A message received here today said they had been landed at Newlyn, Cornwall, by a steamer. Newlyn is in the southernmost tip of England, near Penzance.

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 14.—The missing postal plane which had been catapulted from the deck of the liner Ile De France, was sighted today 28 miles off Bishop's Rock in tow of a sailing vessel, a British seaplane informed authorities here.

The report of the seaplane ended a search that had lasted all night for Commander Louis Demouget and two companions who left the liner with American mail at 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

The Ile De France was 90 miles west of the Scilly Islands at the time. Although the plane carried wireless, nothing was heard from it after it left the liner.

Two British seaplanes left Portland and two started out from here to join the tugs hunting the channel for the French plane.

The report of the British plane did not give details. It was considered likely, however, that the aviators were safe, as their seaplane was sturdy, and that they floated after being forced down until picked up by the fishing boat.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—(UP.)—The three members of the Ile De France mail plane crew have been picked up off the Scilly Islands, a dispatch picked up by the Le Bourget radio station said today.

The dispatch did not mention the disposition of the plane or the mail it was carrying, but said the crew was being carried by the steamer to Plymouth this afternoon. The dispatch said the rescue occurred 20 miles south of the Scilly Islands and 70 miles south of Penzance.

Besides Demouget the plane carried Naval Lieutenant Monrouzeau and Mechanic Le Tierce.

The mail plane had been expected to arrive in either Brest or Havre some time yesterday afternoon, both being refueling stops. She was catapulted from the Ile (Turn to Page Five, Please)

Bandit Who Held Off 200 Officers Boasts He Killed 25 Men.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14.—Alternately begging for death and boasting of his prowess as a killer, Paul Jawarski, Pittsburgh payroll bandit and gunman trapped and shot here late yesterday after he killed one patrolman, shot another and wounded a confederator, was teetering between death from paralysis or death in the electric chair today.

If Jawarski recovers from bullet wounds inflicted by police during the spectacular gun battle which resulted in his capture, he will be removed to Pittsburgh where he is under sentence to die for the murder of a paymaster. The gunman was paralyzed today and on the brink of death.

Jawarski was shot down by Patrolman Yaro Koudela during a battle which brought out 200 policemen and detectives who used tear bombs, riot guns and service revolvers to bring about his capture.

Two of the gunmen's victims, Patrolman George Effinger and Ben Majsterik, the confederator, were in critical condition today in the same hospital. Jawarski's third victim, Patrolman Anthony Wiczorek, was killed instantly.

Jawarski's latest debacle with the law began in a restaurant on Fleet-ave. here. He was dining when a former Pittsburgh youth entered and recognized him. The boy summoned police and Effinger and Wiczorek led the squad of five officers who went to the cafe.

John Vansinder, another condemned murderer who with Jawarski shot his way from the Allegheny-co prison at Pittsburgh a year ago, was with Jawarski. He jumped from his stool and fled, but the killer instinct in Jawarski was predominant.

Jawarski whipped a gun from his clothing and fired. Wiczorek fell dead and Effinger was wounded. Jawarski fled amid a hail of bullets fired by Effinger who refused to be downed.

M. F. DISTRICT HAS NEW LEADER

Rev. Edwin R. Stanford Succeeds Dr. Jeness As Superintendent.

Rev. Edwin R. Stanford was appointed superintendent of the Lancaster district of the Methodist church, at the Ohio conference in Springfield, to succeed Dr. Kelly Jeness, who is sent to Delta Avenue church, in Cincinnati.

Dr. Stanford comes from a pastorate of seven years at Worthington, O., a beautiful church which was dedicated during his work there. He is widely known as a platform speaker, debater and preacher of fine ability.

The Lancaster district, in which Circleville is included, comprises the counties of Pickaway, Fairfield, Hocking and Perry. There are 38 ministers and about 15,000 members in the district. Its annual salaries amount to approximately $77,000.

Circleville residents affiliated with the local Methodist church will welcome the new leader, and will be eager to give him their cooperation.

The new rate, to be put in effect in a few days, also includes a five-cent additional charge for extra passengers.

THOUSANDS SUFFERING, FEAR FAMINE

Property Loss On Island Will Reach Millions—Wires Disrupted.

BY THOMAS E. BENNER
Chancellor, University of Porto Rico

(Copyright 1928 by United Press.)
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 4.—Many lives have been lost in the tropical hurricane which devastated this island yesterday.

The property loss will reach millions.

Death, suffering and destruction was spread through the entire island. It was impossible today even to begin to approximate the loss. All communications were disrupted.

Thousands are homeless and in dire need.

What may have happened in the interior of the island is painful to think of. Within a seven-mile radius of San Juan I personally viewed terrible destruction. Hospitals in this area were unroofed and 80 per cent of the families are without shelter.

Famine and disease threatens them.

The water supply of San Juan and surrounding cities has been cut off.

Medical supplies, food and shelter are needed at once.

The island is not equipped to replace five per cent of the roofs and homes destroyed.

Within the small area I visited, coconut, coffee and banana plantations were destroyed. Other smaller crops were wiped out, cutting off the major food supply.

Many more deaths from famine and disease are inevitable unless relief is organized at once. Immediate action is vital.

The intensity of the storm can be realized when it is considered that the wind velocity at 11 a. m. yesterday, three hours before the storm attained its greatest fury, was 85 miles an hour.

Heavy rain added to the damage caused by the wind.

Porto Rico has an estimated population of 1,400,000. San Juan has a population of 90,000, so that Dr. Benner's estimate that 80 per cent of the population in that area are homeless would mean more than 70,000 persons.

Of the total population, more than 1,000,000 are white.

Porto Rico is a United States possession, administered by Gov. Horace M. Towner of Iowa. It lies about 500 miles southeast of Cuba.

DECLARE WAR ON STRAY DOGS HERE

Circleville police have declared war on stray dogs and will not let up until the dog packs which rove over downtown districts are broken up.

During the past ten days the department has received approximately 15 reports of howling and stray dogs.

Thursday afternoon, Bryce Briggs, county auditor, chased five of the canine tribe from the flower bed in front of the court house.

Police shot one dog Thursday night and another Friday morning. Dogs should not be turned loose on the streets.

Stands Against Smith

E. Smith continued when the s illness, headaches and tion. Aids in eliminating current issue of the Christian News took a stand for Hoover.

This paper is the official organ
of the Ohio Council of Churches,
of which Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, Republican gubernatorial candidate, is president. Cooper was elected a vice president of the organization in 1920 and was chosen president in 1925, 1926
and 1927.
The Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Springfield last week endorsed Hoover, while 80 clergymen and laymen representing 61 Presbyterian churches in southeastern Ohio Tuesday also pledged support to the Republican candidate.
Urges Stand for Prohibition.
The editorial against Gov.
Smith in the Christian News
urges voters to "stand firm for prohibition," and declares that
"those great moral and religious agencies that were instrumental in establishing prohibition cannot remain neutral now for fear of taking a partisan position when that great social experiment is in danger."

It reads in part:
"As the presidential campaign develops, it becomes increasingly evident that the principal issue involved is the maintenance of the modification of the federal prohibition policy embodied in the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act.
"Gov. Smith has clearly defined the issue, first by his message to the Democratic convention stating the difference between his personal position and the dry plank
in the party platform, and later,
in his speech of acceptance, where
he outlines the modification program that he will recommend to Congress, if he is elected.
"With a choice of several issues, the Democratic candidate has selected this as the one on which to wage his fight for the presidency.

"Besides defining the issue,
Gov. Smith has demonstrated that he expects this issue to break down the normal alignment of the two parties. He has placed a wet Republican, Mr. Raskob, in charge of his campaign and he gives every indication of welcoming other support from the Republican ranks. If he is consistent he must expect in like manner to lose the support of dry Democrats.
"This paper has been consistent throughout its career in support of prohibition. It sees no reason to change that position now. It feels that its best service to the prohibition cause at this time is to help secure defeat of Gov.
Smith for the presidency. Just as vigorously, therefore, as it has supported certain measures, such as the League of Nations which bore the Democratic brand, it will this year urge its readers, for the sake of the maintenance of prohibition unimpaired, to vote for Hoover."

CORN CUTTING IS UNDER WAY HERE

"The frost is on the pumpkin, and the fodder's in the shock."
Not yet but it soon will be, as the farmers of Pickaway-co have sailed into their corn fields in the past few days and are making great headway, according to reports from the Pickaway-Co Farm Bureau. The weather has been ideal for cutting.
Many cutters from the hills are arriving to find work in the fields of Pickaway-co.

Trouble Completely Relieved.

MR. G. W. LANDIS.
"I really did not think I would ever be relieved of my troubles but, Konjola surely acted as a Godsend in my case and I will always recommend it," said Mr. G.
W. Landis, 327 Madison Avenue,
Akron, Ohio.
"The awful pains of neuritis settled in my arms and shoulders and were so bad I could scarcely raise my hands above my head.
For ten years this had been my condition and nothing ever gave me the least relief. I was also constipated and this certainly added to my suffering and my entire inner-system was filled with poisons.
"But a treatment of Konjola banished every one of these ailments and now I am feeling like a different person. This medicine has driven the neuritis from my body and I can't use my arms just as I did before that ailment came over me. The constipation is ended and I have free bowel movement every day. Konjola is a splendid medicine."
Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at Mykranitz Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

GUNMAN DYING

the shooting, was hit by a stray
bullet.
From the restaurant the killer followed a circuitous route to a house on Chambers-ave. where he hid under a bed. A general alarm, meanwhile, brought out 200 officers armed with shotguns, rifles
revolvers and tear bombs.
When police came he was ready.
Two guns blazed. His companion
fled but Jawarski had shot down
three men before he ducked.
With one gun discarded and the other empty, the bandit and slayer continued to defy police. He had taken refuge in a house. Police were firing guns and throwing tear bombs.
"Throw some more of them.
Come on in here. I'll blow your heads off," he taunted police.
Two shells from a 30-30 rifle dropped him. One hit him in the head, the other in the shoulder.
The crowd that saw him fall
yelled for his blood. But he lived,
in defiance.
With his entire left side paral-yzed he continued to spurt venom
on the law.
"I'd kill a cop anytime," he said. His record bears him out.
Police, anxious to catch his companion, John Vashinder, his accomplice in an Allegheny-co.
jail break, sought information
from Jawarski.
"I've killed men for doing
what you are trying to get me
to do," Jawarski answered them.
"I'm not rat. I'll tell you anything about myself, but I won't tell anything that will get anyone else in trouble."
Asked how many men he had
killed, he said:
"When I was in jail before counted 25. This one must make my 26th."
Police were sceptical.

We buy and sell only standard, first-quality goods. We do not handle bankrupt stocks, imperfect goods or "seconds." Hence we have no pretext for "reducing prices."

New goods are arriving at our store almost continuously. Nothing remains on our shelves long enough to become shop-worn. Hence there is no occasion for our holding "price slashing events" to get rid of such obsolete merchandise.

When new merchandise is received at this store the lowest possible price consistent with the market value of the goods is placed on it. You get the advantage of this low price EVERY DAY and not alone on special "sales" occasions.

YOUNG CORBETT III WINS OVER BAKER

Californian Gets Decision But New York Crowd Doesn't Like It.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Young Corbett, III, today held a 12-round decision over Sergeant Sammy Baker, perennial "trial horse" for welterweight contenders, but New York fight fans doubted if the heralded California southpaw was headed toward the 147-pound championship.

Making his eastern debut in Madison Square Garden last night before 10,972 fans, Corbett won the verdict from the Mitchell Field aviator, but the award was an unpopular one and the crowd cheered Baker to the echo when he left the ring. Corbett was booed.

Corbett had Baker on the floor for a count of nine in the seventh round from a short right to the pit of the stomach. The blow didn't appear to carry much steam behind it, but Baker groaned when it struck him and slumped to the floor. He was back on one knee after four had been tolled, and then rested until the referee reached nine before getting back to his feet.

The Californian failed to press the attack, and Baker carried the fight to Corbett and was almost entitled to the round. Corbett flashed a momentary attack in the third round which appeared to have Baker in trouble, but the tough little aviator held on and survived the round without difficulty.

HUNT 2 IN MURDER OF YOUNG WOMAN

Putnam-Co. Authorities Learn River's Victim Was Not Drowned.

OTTAWA, O., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Mary Hemler, 20, whose body was found last night in the Blanchard river near Gilboa, five miles east of here, was murdered and her body afterward thrown into the stream, according to the verdict of Dr. Peter D. Bixel, coroner of Putnam-co.

The woman's neck was broken and there was a slight bruise across the right eye.

Dr. Bixel believes Mrs. Hemler was murdered some miles from the place where the body was found.

County officers are looking for two men, who visited the home of William Drumm, father of the woman, where she made her home.

It is said she talked with them Monday night. Authorities also are looking for the woman's shoes, which are missing.

When discovered the body was clothed in a calico dress and she was in her stocking feet.

SMITH TO REPLY TO OTHER CHARGES

Ohio Dry Leader Asks Candidate Directly If He Drinks.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Alfred E. Smith had tightened up political fences today in his own state, which will be one of the critical states in the presidential election, so that he can leave the situation well in hand as he turns to his western campaign.

He discussed the state campaign in all its phases, including the likely gubernatorial nominee, last night at the mansion with state leaders, headed by M. William Bray of Utica, new state chairman.

The Democratic candidate began to receive at his office today messages upon his statement "nailing as a lie" the report that he was "disgustingly intoxicated" recently at the Syracuse state fair" which constituted his first formal recognition of the "whispering campaign." Among many favorable letters and telegrams was an inquiry from an Ohio dry leader, Noah W. Cooper, asking Smith, directly, if he drinks.

Whether the governor will answer this is not known. He is preparing a statement similar to that upon the Syracuse report upon another story that has been brought to his attention. It will be made public probably tomorrow.

Smith displayed keen interest in the publicity given his first statement which he had prepared under his own signature. More seriously, he studies newspaper photographs of himself and his party in the grandstand at the state fair, reprinted, with a magnifying glass in his office at the capitol.

He was asked by a newspaper correspondent what he was doing. "I'm looking for those two men who were supposed to be holding me up," he said.

"No, I don't see them there," he said.

The governor displayed to correspondents several sets of gaily colored suspenders sent him by a manufacturer who happened to see a picture of the governor with his coat off, showing that he wore the old fashioned "galluses" instead of a belt.

"If I've got to have two men to hold me up, I guess I will need something to hold my clothes up," he remarked playfully.

"Judging from the formidable character of these suspenders," he added, "there's one thing I won't lose on this trip."

HOOVER WORRIED OVER WHISPERING

Republicans Try To Squelch Growing Tendency To Slander and Gossip.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Hoover headquarters here are worried about the whisper campaign which appears to be gaining the momentum of a snowball rolling down hill.

Repeated efforts to quash slanderous assertions about both candidates have thus far been unsuccessful. Meantime some Republicans foresee the possibility that the Democrats may attempt to set up Governor Smith, the Democratic nominee, as a martyr to gossip.

Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, issued a statement last Sunday denouncing the slander campaign, but the whispering has persisted. And Senator Reed Smoot, Republican, Utah, issued a statement yesterday in which he said:

"Governor, (addressing Smith), the way to martyrdom is not via 'What Mrs. Jones says to Mrs. Brown.'" He counseled Smith to avoid what he termed "clothesline controversies."

This paper is the official organ
of the Ohio Council of Churches,
of which Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, Republican gubernatorial candidate, is president. Cooper
was elected a vice president of
the organization in 1920 and was chosen president in 1925, 1926

Urges Stand for Prohibition.
The editorial against Gov.
Smith in the Christian News
urges voters to "stand firm for prohibition," and declares that
"those great moral and religious agencies that were instrumental

in establishing prohibition can-
not remain neutral now for fear
of taking a partisan position when
that great social experiment is in danger."
It reads in part:
"As the presidential campaign
develops, it becomes increasingly evident that the principal issue involved is the maintenance or the modification of the federal prohibition policy embodied in the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act.
"Gov. Smith has clearly defined
the issue, first by his message to the Democratic convention stating
the difference between his personal position and the dry plank
in the party platform, and later,
in his speech of acceptance, where
he outlines the modification program that he will recommend to Congress, if he is elected.

the shooting, was hit by a stray
bullet.
From the restaurant the killer
followed a circuitous route to a house on Chambers-ave. where he hid under a bed. A general alarm,
meanwhile, brought out 200 officers armed with shotguns, rifles
revolvers and tear bombs.
When police came he was ready.
Two guns blazed. His companion
fled but Jawarski had shot down
three men before he ducked.
With one gun discarded and the other empty, the bandit and slayer continued to defy police. He had taken refuge in a house. Police were firing guns and throwing
tear bombs.
"Throw some more of them.
Come on in here. I'll blow your
heads off," he taunted police.
Two shells from a 30-30 rifle
dropped him. One hit him in the head, the other in the shoulder.
The crowd that saw him fall
yelled for his blood. But he lived,
in defiance.
With his entire left side paral-
yzed he continued to spurt venom
on the law.
"I'd kill a cop anytime," he said. His record bears him out.
Police, anxious to catch his companion, John Vashinder, his
accomplice in an Allegheny-co.
jail break, sought information
from Jawarski.
"I've killed men for doing
what you are trying to get me
to do," Jawarski answered them.
"I'm not rat. I'll tell you anything about myself, but I won't tell anything that will get any
one else in trouble."
Asked how many men he had
killed, he said:
"When I was in jail before I counted 25. This one must make
my 26th."
Police were sceptical.

Why Don't You Hold "Sales"

Our Answer Is—

We buy and sell only standard, first-quality goods. We do not handle bankrupt stocks, imperfect goods or "seconds." Hence we have no pretext for "reducing prices."

New goods are arriving at our store almost continuously. Nothing remains on our shelves long enough to become shop-worn. Hence there is no occasion for our holding "price slashing events" to get rid of such obsolete merchandise.

When new merchandise is received at this store the

Lesson for September 16
PAUL WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT:—I. Cor. 1:10-13; 2:1-11, 21-23.
GOLDEN TEXT:—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.
PRIMARY TOPIC:—Paul Writes a Letter to His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC:—Paul Writes a Good Letter to His Friends.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC:—Paul Urges Team Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC:—Paul Pleads for Christian Unity.

Concerning Contentment in the Church (1:10-13)

1. Exhortation (v. 10). "That ye all speak the same thing." In view of the fact that he sought them in the name of Jesus Christ, the one thing which he desired them to speak was the Lord's name. The name of the Lord stands for all that is good and does what there is no divisions among you; that is, no factions, no alienation of affection. "That ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

2. The reason for this exhortation (v. 11). Word had been brought to Paul by members of the household of Chloe that wrangling was going on among the members of the Corinthian church. He assured them that he had sufficient evidence of the strife which was going on among them.

3. The nature of the contentions (v. 12). Their disputes were about their teachers. Their interests were centered in their favorite ministers. Some were for Paul, perhaps attracted by his logic; some were for Apollos, doubtless moved by his stirring eloquence; others were for Peter. Doubtless these were Jewish converts who looked to Peter as their authority. There were still others who had as their cry "back to Christ," repudiating all human teachers.

4. The grounds of allegiance to Christ (v. 13).

(1) He is Head of the whole church.

The unifying power of the body is the head. He raised the question, "Is Christ divided?" The mere raising of the question gave the answer.

(2) Redemption accomplished. By his atoning death He has supreme Lordship over all.

(3) Allegiance to Christ acknowledged in baptism. "By one Spirit are we all baptized into one body (I Cor. 12:13)."

1. Concerning Christian Ministers (3:1-6).

Since the dissensions in the church gathered around the ministers, Paul proceeded to cure the evil by exalting the ministerial office in its true light. To conceive of ministers as party leaders or teachers of philosophy tends to divisions. Divisions in the church occur when men are occupied with the messenger rather than with the message. The cure in such cases is to get a right conception and proper estimate of human teachers. Ministers really are:

1. Servants of God (vv. 5, 6). They are instruments in His hands for the execution of His will. They are men sent to deliver a message, to do a definite work.

2. Ministers are equal in rank (vv. 8, 9). They are called by the same spirit to teach the same truth, and therefore stand in the same relationship. Official hierarchy in the church has no foundation in the Scriptures.

3. Every minister must give an account to God for his work (vv. 10-12).

If he lay other foundation than Christ, he is not a Christian minister at all. He builds sound doctrine on the foundation he will receive a reward. If he build false doctrine on a true foundation he will suffer loss and receive punishment. Sorrow and anguish will be to him who builds good material upon a wrong foundation, and likewise to him who builds poor material upon a right foundation. Human wisdom has no place in the solemn work of building the church of God.

4. Ministers are the property of the church (v. 22).

Frequently the assumption is that the church is owned by the ministers. Ministers should be followed only as far as they follow Christ.

5. Ministers are God's stewards (4:1-5).

Their business is to dispense His truth. They do not originate the message. God demands fidelity on their part and He will enter into judgment with them as to their faithfulness.

RESCUE PLANE

De France at a position about 400 miles off Brest and traveled at a speed of between 90 and 100 miles an hour.

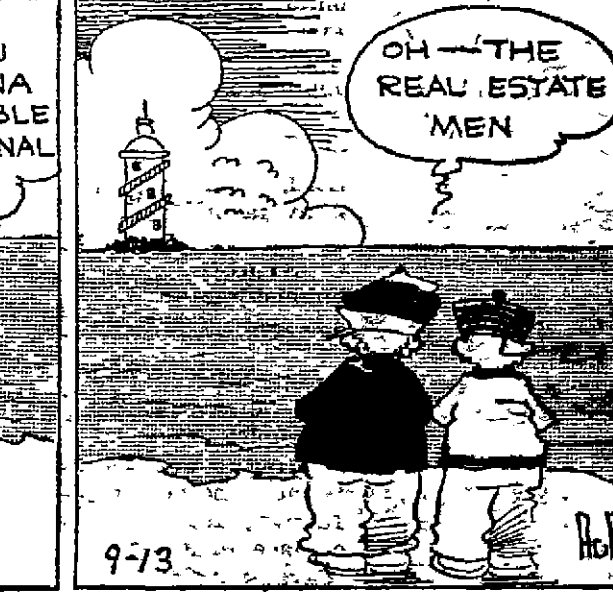

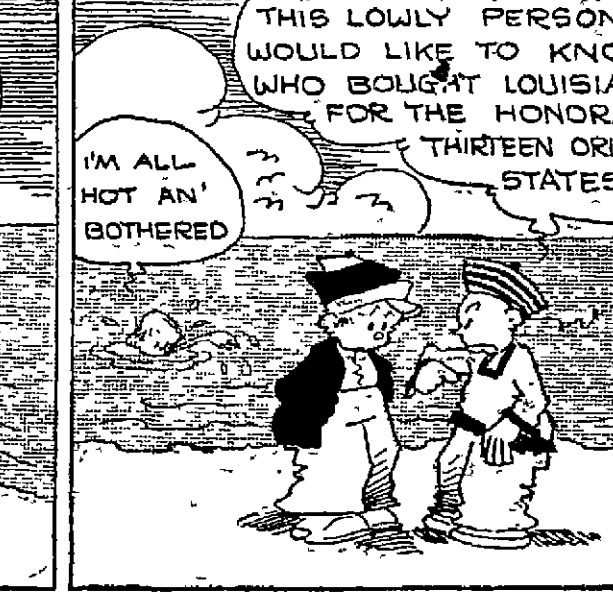

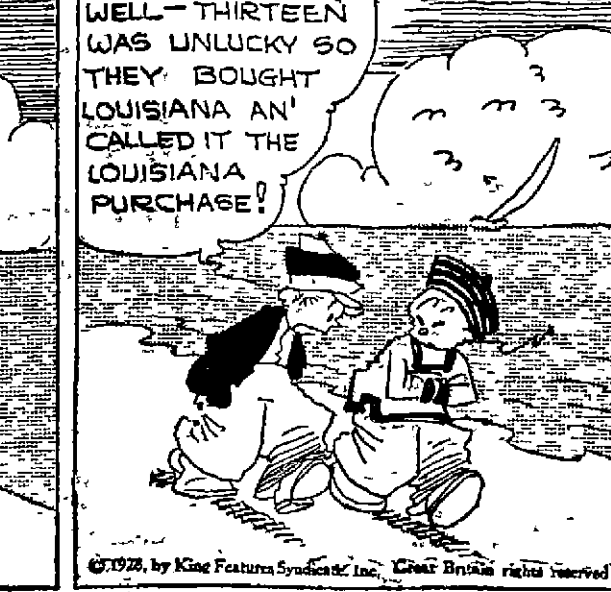

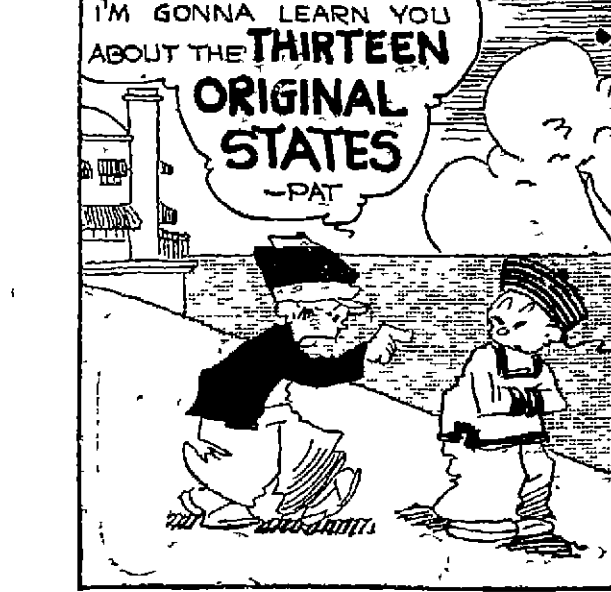

Weather conditions were good at the time of the catapulting and continued favorable throughout the night.

Late yesterday afternoon French line officials advised that the plane had not yet been heard from. Coast stations were advised to be on the lookout and radio stations were told to keep alert for a signal from the seaplane's radio.

BRINGING UP FATHER.

JUST KIDS:—

were ordered out in an effort to locate the machine.

Reports of the missing seaplane came at a time when the cabinet was convening to delve deeply into the French aviation situation, a crisis brought about by the recent death of Minister of Commerce Maurice Bokanowski and five companions. They were killed when their plane caught fire and crashed just a few weeks ago. It was pointed out that in little more than a year 12 prominent flyers have been killed in France. Public criticism has been made of the government policy and demands have been made that a separate ministry of the air be appointed.

CAMPAIGN LOG

Herbert Hoover conferred with Senator Curtis and Dr. Hubert Work today on campaign plans, after which Curtis left on his mid-western campaign which will cover ten states.

Senator Robinson urged religious tolerance and truthful presentation of campaign issues in a speech at Columbia, S. C. He will speak in Savannah, Ga., tonight.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, charged Senator Robinson with "wilful distortion of facts" with regard to Robinson's statements on Herbert Hoover's attitude toward maintenance of farm products at armistice time.

Governor Smith indicated he would trace down every lie in the "whispering campaign" after he had conferred with New York state Democratic leaders on the political situation in New York.

Senator Arthur Capper said the west would not take seriously Governor Smith's promises to aid the farmer because of his Tammany connections.

Senator James A. Reed in a statement through the Democratic campaign headquarters said the farmer had learned that Herbert Hoover was a foe to their cause, mainly through his war time activities.

NINE PLANES FAIL IN NON-STOP FLIGHT

Goebel Finishes But Is Ineligible For Prize Because of Landing.

MINES FIELD, Los Angeles, Sept. 14—Nine planes, entrants in the trans-continental nonstop air derby—were scattered across the United States today as mute evidence that man-made machines cannot always defy the laws of nature.

Only one plane completed the trip from Roosevelt field, New York, to Los Angeles and that one was forced to come down for fuel near Prescott, Ariz., after being battered by head winds. It was the white-winged Yankee Doodle, piloted by Col. Art Goebel, winner of the Dole race to Hawaii.

Goebel, who arrived amid the cheers of 45,000 persons who had gathered at Mines Field, failed to win the $12,500 first prize, but he added another record to his long list of aerial triumphs.

Fighting wind and weather all the way, he broke the east-west non-stop record of Macready and Kelley for trans-continental flights. Goebel's unofficial time was given as 23 hours and 50 minutes. Recently he, with Harry Tucker, who accompanied him on the air Derby flight, set a new mark for a west-east flight across the nation by spanning the continent in 18 hours, 53 minutes.

Early reports today gave the location of the other eight planes that started from Roosevelt field as follows:

George Haldeman and Shirley Short in Bellanca—forced down at Albuquerque, N. M.
Nick Namer in Buhl air sedan—down at Rawlins, Wyo.
Jack Iseman in Charles A. Levine's trans-Atlantic monoplane, Columbia—forced down at Amarillo, Tex.

John Morris and Col. William Thaw in Lockheed-Vega—forced down near Indianapolis, Ind., with a smashed oil line.

Emil Burgin in a Bellanca—down at Willard, N. M.
Clifford McMillin in a Stinson-Detrolter, landed near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Wednesday afternoon.

Randolph Page in a Stinson Junior went down at Allentown, Pa., a few hours after leaving Roosevelt field.

Oliver C. Leboutellier, in Mrs. James A. Stillman's Bellanca, returned to Roosevelt field shortly after their start because the compass was out of order.

Goebel and Tucker showed the strain of their long battle with the elements when they landed. The wind had torn away one door from the Yankee Doodle and the craft was badly battered.

The crowd rushed for Goebel's plane as soon as he landed and the pilot and Tucker were carried on the shoulders of friends to the announcer's stand where they were hailed as the winners of the flight.

It was not until about 20 minutes later that the enthusiasm of the throng subsided sufficiently to allow Goebel to explain to Dudley Steele, contest chairman, that the Yankee Doodle had been forced to land on a lonely road near Prescott to refuel.

LOVE'S MAGIC SYMBOL

A New York columnist recently made what he thinks quite a discovery.

Busy Times Square, heart of the theatrical district, he says, is full of "petters." Couples stroll up and down the street, their arms locked about one another, indulging in semi-furtive caresses in the most public place imaginable, and no one pays any attention to them.

But let a honeymoon couple stroll down the same street, be they never so circumspect and proper, and every idler and passerby on the sidewalk will pay them the tribute of a second glance.

"Let two people who are honestly in love try to walk through the theater crowd—fingers barely touching—and all New York knows," remarks the columnist.

He thinks this is surprising. But, after all, why should it be?

Petting is rather common, even unexciting, whether in New York or in Circleville. It involves no cosmic revelation or glimpse of hidden glory. The least sophisticated man can ignore it.

But to most people, if they are at all fortunate, there comes at some time or another an experience so tremendous and glorious that no care can hide it. A young man suddenly discovers that all the vague dreams and glittering legends of his boyhood are true: a girl finds that a matted knight with a silver shield—clad, it may be, in a plain suit of blue serge—has ridden up to her and led the way to the oldest, most entrancing roadway in all the world. Is it any wonder that two such people cannot keep their discovery to themselves, no matter how hard they try?

They might succeed, perhaps, at that, if the rest of us had not been tipped off. But no matter how unlucky or disillusioned we may be, all of us, once in our lives, get a vague glimpse of the glory that lies beyond the stars. Something—perhaps nothing more than a brief hour by a moonlit beach, or a fleeting moment in a city park—comes for a short time to tell us that our dreams have not played us false. We are capable of infinite happiness, even if we do not often actually get it.

So we are in on the secret. We know that a boy and girl, untaught and unaided, can build for themselves a heaven as splendid as the one that John saw on Patmos. We know, too, unfortunately, that this heaven of theirs probably will not last; but while it lasts it is very real, and its momentary reality assures us that we are something more than animated clay.

That is why true lovers can never hope to be unobserved. The eyes of those who have seen the power and the glory of the world always betray them. They remain fixed on distant visions; and the rest of us must in spite of ourselves, pay our tribute of a second glance in passing.

RADIO AND THE PRINTED PAGE

Some highly pertinent remarks on radio advertising, voiced by the widely-known advertising man, Thomas F. Logan, in a recent speech at Detroit, are reprinted in a little booklet and are worth considerable thought.

"Despite the great reliance we place on broadcasting as a new sales force in American business, we would not recommend to any advertiser that he place all or a large proportion of his advertising expenditure in this new medium," says Mr. Logan. "Broadcasting, for the present at least, must be an adjunct to printed salesmanship—and it is a mighty powerful adjunct."

After pointing out that newspapers, magazines, billboards and radio have each a definite place in the advertising scheme, Mr. Logan says of the radio:

"I am willing to risk my reputation as a prophet in saying that while it is here to stay, it will not and cannot replace the printed page. It is an extension of sales energy—a rounding out process, rather than a substitute. The printed page is the firm foundation of all profitable advertising."

Mr. Logan, one of the greatest advertising specialists in the country, does not see the conflict between the two types of advertising that some others have seen. He sees them as complementary; each one aiding and assisting the other.

RADIO CAMPAIGNING

Radio campaigning will reach millions of people who have not been affected by political campaigns before. During recent elections, it is doubtful if one voter in every 25 would attend any campaign rally of either party. But now with the candidates speaking into radio instruments which reach about every American home equipped with these facilities, many more people are likely to listen to this discussion.

The man who formerly thought he was doing a good job if he attended one political rally during a campaign may tune in on some candidate once or twice a week. He ought to know a lot more about politics when he gets through. Old prejudices will disappear, when people are confronted with both sides of a proposition.

As people listen to these addresses, they discover these political questions are not remote issues. They touch every home in Circleville very intimately.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a secretary, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young sophisticated sister, Goldie. Through jealousy, Goldie creates a break between Alela and Gary. W. B. Lingard, employer of Alela and Gary, after years of search meets Marise, sweetheart of his youth. Eavesdropping, Goldie learns that Marise is not her sister—but her mother! She demands an explanation and Marise pours out the story of her tragic early marriage to a convict who has since died. Goldie leaves home. Alela, visiting her parents in the country, meets Gary there. Love blooms anew. Gary sails for Italy on a business trip. Later, Lingard is forced to make a hurried trip to Paris and takes Alela along as secretary. His niece, the Countess Dellamanc, acting as chaperone. They arrive in Paris. Gary meets the party there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LIV.

THE sun shone down upon the boulevards of Paris.

Alela—having finished the morning's work for her employer—looked out from her window in the Ritz Hotel into the wide sweep of the Place Vendôme—and thought the world was beautiful!

At four o'clock, Gary was coming to fetch her. Mr. Lingard had said she could have the entire evening off.

Gary was going to take her to the forest of Saint Cloud. The very name held romance.

It was one o'clock, and she felt hungry. Should she have a sandwich sent up to her room, or venture forth?

Uncertain though her knowledge of the French tongue was, she decided on the latter course. Alela felt extraordinarily exhilarated today, and not a scrap fatigued after the gay party at Ciro's last night.

There is something very stimulating in the air of Paris. Also, a contagious buoyancy from the happy spirit of the people.

And, added to that, there was the impending meeting with Gary! Alela stopped out into the Place Vendôme, and proceeded towards the Madeleine.

She lingered now and then before the entrancing shop-windows along the Rue de la Paix.

In the open flower-market at the church of the Madeleine, with the traffic whirling around it, fat old women under enormous cotton umbrellas sold their perfumed wares.

For three cents Alela bought a fragrant spray of lily-of-the-valley that would have cost at least $2 back in the U. S. A.

She found a comic little restaurant with tiny tables planted on the sidewalk. A quasi-privacy was afforded by means of a three-foot hedge of orange trees in tubs.

Alela was amused . . . in to the Bois? It's cool out there." The Bois de Boulogne? She'd love that! she declared. She'd have so little time in Paris, she wanted to see everything possible.

"But couldn't we ride in one of those funny little horse-carriages, where the drivers wear the tall white shiny hats?"

"That's the right spirit." The young man gave her arm a tiny pressure. Here was a girl after his own heart! "I'd have suggested a 'fiacre' myself, but I thought maybe you had the usual American mania for speed!"

They were entering the wide sweep of that magnificent architectural lay-out, the Place de la Concorde.

"Oh! Exquisite! came from Alela's beauty-loving heart.

In the great open square, with the garden of the Tuilleries on the one side, and the Champs Elysees on the other, flowing off into the distance, spacious beds of rose-nodded pretty, knowing heads. Lonely statuary peeped through the chestnut trees on every hand. Fountains tinkled. A thousand automobiles, on pleasure bent, at a great speed flew hither and yon.

Gary hailed a funny old horse-drawn vehicle of the landau type.

Alela leaned back on the cushions by the side of Gary, as they clippetty-clopped (the sound of the hoofs was really quite in keeping with the tinkleness of Paris! she decided) up that magnificent boulevard known as the Champs Elysees.

Trees lined the route, with the inevitable statues gleaming through the foliage here and there.

Restaurants—all white, and looking like enormous wedding cakes—were set among the green, and people were sipping tea out on the lawns under striped umbrellas.

They reached the Arc de Triomphe, and turned left into the famous Avenue. Palatial buildings flanked the route. There were horsemen, and crowds of promenaders, and the bright gleam of motor cars.

At its end was the Bois, a bewildering labyrinth of paths and trees and glinting water.

"Ah! this is fairyland!" Alela breathed, drunk with its loveliness and with the nearness of Gary Chester.

"It's heaven—because you're here!" whispered the young man at her side.

Gary was going to take her to the forest of Saint Cloud. The very name held romance. . . . It was one o'clock, and she felt hungry. Should she have a sandwich sent up to her room, or venture forth?

Uncertain though her knowledge of the French tongue was, she decided on the latter course. Alveda felt extraordinarily exhilarated to day, and not a scrap fatigued after the gay party at Circo's last night. There is something very stimulating in the air of Paris. Also, a contagious buoyancy from the happy spirit of the people.

And, added to that, there was the impending meeting with Gary! Alveda stepped out into the Place Vendôme, and proceeded towards the Madeleine.

She lingered now and then before the entrancing shop-windows along the Rue de la Paix.

In the open flower-market at the church of the Madeleine, with the traffic whirling around it, fat old women under enormous cotton umbrellas sold their perfumed wares.

For three cents Alveda bought a fragrant spray of lily-of-the-valley that would have cost at least $2 back in the U. S. A.

She found a comic little restaurant with tiny tables planted on the sidewalk. A quasi-privacy was afforded by means of a three-foot hedge of orange trees in tubs. Alveda was amused . . . intrigued by the quaint French habit of eating one's meals in the open air, more, and the traffic and myriads of pedestrians right at one's elbow, so-to say!

It was a very dainty, satisfying meal, however—perfectly cooked. An attractive, black-eyed garcon served her as though she were a little princess. . . . hovering about.

The grand total, which included four courses and delicious coffee, amounted to sixteen cents in American cash!

"How beautiful you look! Like a rose!"

In the foyer of the Ritz, promptly at four o'clock, was Gary Chester. He came quickly forward to greet Alveda who, with the lily-of-the-valley fastened on one shoulder, was wearing her smart little sports suit of pink millane.

She flushed and laughed, immensely happy. She said, with a lilt in her voice:

"If I'm a rose, I see you're wearing a wallflower in your lapel! Taking that as a symbol, you're extraordinarily modest for a young man, aren't you?"

"Quite to the contrary. I'm the proudest fellow in Paris, right now!" He slipped a hand beneath her elbow, and—with an air of gay possessiveness—piloted her to the exit. "I've been counting the minutes since last night till now!"

The sun shone down upon the couple as they headed for the Rue de Rivoli. In a smart grey suit, Gary was looking very handsome. It matched his eyes. Alveda thought he looked wonderful in grey.

"Would you like to go to the tea-dance at Claridge's? Or Fouquet's? We shan't go out to Saint Cloud till later on. I thought . . ."

Alveda answered: "It seems a shame, in such gorgeous weather, to be indoors even for a minute. . . . He looked pleased at that, said quickly: "Suppose we take a taxi to the Bois? It's cool out there." The Bois de Boulogne? She'd love that! she declared. She'd have so little time in Paris, she wanted to see everything possible.

"But couldn't we ride in one of those funny little horse-carriages, where the drivers wear the tall white shiny hats?"

"That's the right spirit." The young man gave her arm a tiny pressure. Here was a girl after his own heart! "I'd have suggested a 'fiacre' myself, but I thought maybe you had the usual American mania for speed!"

They were entering the wide sweep of that magnificent architectural lay-out, the Place de la Concorde.

"Oh! Exquisite! came from Alveda's beauty-loving heart.

In the great open square, with the garden of the Tuileries on the one side, and the Champs Elysees on the other, flowing off into the distance, spacious beds of rose-nodded pretty, knowing heads. Lonely statuary peeped through the chestnut trees on every hand. Fountains tinkled. A thousand automobiles, on pleasure bent, at a great speed flew hither and yon.

Gary hailed a funny old horse-drawn vehicle of the landau type. Alveda leaned back on the cushions by the side of Gary, as they clop-clop-clopped (the sound of the hoofs was really quite in keeping with the tinkleness of Paris! she decided) up that magnificent boulevard known as the Champs Elysees.

Trees lined the route, with the inevitable statues gleaming through the foliage here and there.

Restaurants—all white, and looking like enormous wedding cakes—were set among the green and people were sipping tea out on the lawns under striped umbrellas.

They reached the Arc de Triomphe, and turned left into the famous Avenue. Palatial buildings flanked the route. There were horsemen, and crowds of promenaders, and the bright gleam of motor cars.

At its end was the Bois, a bewildering labyrinth of paths and trees and glinting water.

"Ah! this is fairyland!" Alveda breathed, drunk with its loveliness and with the nearness of Gary Chester. . . .

"It's heaven—because you're here!" whispered the young man at her side.

PAUL WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—I. Cor. 1:10-13: 3:5-11, 21-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Writes a Letter to His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Writes a Good Letter to His Friends.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Urges Team Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Pleads for Christian Unity.

Concerning Contentment in the Church (1:10-13).

1. Exhortation (v. 10). "That ye all speak the same thing." In view of the fact that he besought them in the name of Jesus Christ, the one thing which he desired them to speak was the Lord's name. The name of the Lord stands for all that the Lord is and does. "That there be no divisions among you," that is, no factions, no alienation of affection. "That ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

2. The reason for this exhortation (v. 11). Word had been brought to Paul by members of the household of Chloe that wrangling was going on among the members of the Corinthian church. He assured them that he had sufficient evidence of the strife which was going on among them.

3. The nature of the contentions (v. 12). Their disputes were about their teachers. Their interests were centered in their favorite ministers. Some were for Paul, perhaps attracted by his logic; some were for Apollos, doubtless moved by his stirring eloquence; others were for Peter. Doubtless these were Jewish converts who looked to Peter as their authority. There were still others who had as their cry "back to Christ," repudiating all human teachers.

4. The grounds of allegiance to Christ (v. 13).

(1) He is Head of the whole church. The unifying power of the body is the head. He raised the question, "Is Christ divided?" The mere raising of the question gave the answer.

(2) Redemption accomplished. By his atoning death He has supreme Lordship over all.

(3) Allegiance to Christ acknowledged in baptism. My one Spirit and we all baptized into one body (I Cor. 12:13).

(4) Concerning Christian Ministers (3:1-4:5).

Since the dissensions in the church gathered around the ministers, Paul proceeded to cure the evil by exhibiting the ministerial office in its true light. To conceive of ministers as party leaders or teachers of philosophy tends to divisions. Divisions in the church occur when men are occupied with the messenger rather than with the message. The cure in such cases is to get a right conception and proper estimate of human teachers. Ministers really are:

1. Servants of God (vv. 5, 6).

2. They are instruments in His hands for the execution of His will. They are men sent to deliver a message, to do a definite work.

3. Ministers are equal in rank (vv. 8, 9). They are called by the same spirit to teach the same truth, and therefore stand in the same relationship. Official hierarchy in the church has no foundation in the Scriptures.

4. Every minister must give an account to God for his work (vv. 10-12).

If he lay other foundation than Christ he is not a Christian minister at all. If he build sound doctrine on the foundation he will receive a reward. If he build false doctrine on a true foundation he will suffer loss and receive punishment. Sorrow and anguish will be to him who builds good material upon a wrong foundation, and likewise to him who builds poor material upon a right foundation. Human wisdom has no place in the solemn work of building the church of God.

5. Ministers are the property of the church (vv. 22, 23).

Frequently the assumption is that the church is owned by the ministers. Ministers should be followed only as far as they follow Christ.

6. Ministers are God's stewards (4:1-5). Their business is to dispense His truth. They do not originate the message. God demands fidelity on their part and He will enter into judgment with them as to their faithfulness.

De France at a position about 400 miles off Brest and traveled at a speed of between 90 and 100 miles an hour.

Weather conditions were good at the time of the catapulting and continued favorable throughout the night.

Late yesterday afternoon French line officials advised that the plane had not yet been heard from. Coast stations were advised to be on the lookout and radio stations were told to keep alert for a signal from the seaplane's radio.

Later two seaplanes and several tugs were sent out to search about the channel, but they returned at 7:45, without having sighted the powerful white craft.

BRINGING UP FATHER.

JUST KIDS:—

were ordered out in an effort to locate the machine.

Reports of the missing seaplane came at a time when the cabinet was convening to delve deeply into the French aviation situation, a crisis brought about by the recent death of Minister of Commerce Maurice Bokanowski and five companions. They were killed when their plane caught fire and crashed just a few weeks ago. It was pointed out that in little more than a year 12 prominent flyers have been killed in France. Public criticism has been made of the government policy and demands have been made that a separate ministry of the air be appointed.

Herbert Hoover conferred with Senator Curtis and Dr. Hubert Work today on campaign plans, after which Curtis left on his mid-western campaign which will cover ten states.

Senator Robinson urged religious tolerance and truthful presentation of campaign issues in a speech at Columbia, S. C. He will speak in Savannah, Ga., tonight.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, charged Senator Robinson with "wilful distortion of facts" with regard to Robinson's statements on Herbert Hoover's attitude toward maintenance of farm products at armistice time.

Governor Smith indicated he would trace down every lie in the "whispering campaign" after he had conferred with New York state Democratic leaders on the political situation in New York.

Senator Arthur Capper said the west would not take seriously Governor Smith's promises to aid the farmer because of his Tammany connections.

Senator James A. Reed in a statement through the Democratic campaign headquarters said the farmer had learned that Herbert Hoover was a foe to their cause, mainly through his war time activities.

Then and Now

NINE PLANES FAIL IN NON-STOP FLIGHT

Goebel Finishes But Is Ineligible For Prize Because of Landing.

MINES FIELD, Los Angeles, Sept. 14—Nine planes, entrants in the trans-continental nonstop air derby—were scattered across the United States today as mute evidence that man-made machines cannot always defy the laws of nature. Only one plane completed the trip from Roosevelt Field, New York, to Los Angeles and that one was forced to come down for fuel near Prescott, Ariz., after being battered by head winds. It was the white-winged Yankee Doodle, piloted by Col. Art Goebel winner of the Dole race to Hawaii.

Goebel, who arrived amid the cheers of 45,000 persons who had gathered at Mines Field, failed to win the $12,500 first prize, but he added another record to his long list of aerial triumphs.

Fighting wind and weather all the way, he broke the east-west non-stop record of Macready and Kelley for trans-continental flights. Goebel's unofficial time was given as 23 hours and 50 minutes. Recently he, with Harry Tucker, who accompanied him on the air Derby flight, set a new mark for a west-east flight across the nation by spanning the continent in 18 hours, 58 minutes.

Early reports today gave the location of the other eight planes that started from Roosevelt Field as follows:

George Haldeman and Shirley Short in Bellanca—forced down at Albuquerque, N. M.
Nick Namer in Buhl air sedan—down at Rawlins, Wyo.
Jack Iseman in Charles A. Levine's trans-Atlantic monoplane, Columbia—forced down at Amarillo, Tex.

John Morris and Col. William Thaw in Lockheed-Vega—forced down near Indianapolis, Ind., with a smashed oil line.

Emil Burgin in a Bellanca—down at Willard, N. M.
Clifford McMillin in a Stinson-Detrolter, landed near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Wednesday afternoon.
Randolph Page in a Stinson Junior went down at Allentown, Pa., a few hours after leaving Roosevelt Field.

Oliver C. Leboutellier, in Mrs. James A. Stillman's Bellanca, returned to Roosevelt Field shortly after their start because the compass was out of order.

Goebel and Tucker showed the strain of their long battle with the elements when they landed. The wind had torn away one door from the Yankee Doodle and the craft was badly battered. The crowd rushed for Goebel's plane as soon as he landed and the pilot and Tucker were carried on the shoulders of friends to the announcer's stand where they were hailed as the winners of the flight.

It was not until about 20 minutes later that the enthusiasm of the throng subsided sufficiently to allow Goebel to explain to Dudley Steele, contest chairman, that the Yankee Doodle had been forced to land on a lonely road near Prescott to refuel.

made him ineligible for the prize and that most of the other contestants had been forced down, many of the spectators left the field.
